

TV > Reality

FRAUD BOMBSHELL Bachelor Clayton Echard's ex-fling has admitted to 'fraud and forging pregnancy records' after paternity test scandal

The woman was supposed to give birth in February

Lex Lecce

Published: 21:46 ET, Mar 7 2024 | Updated: 21:46 ET, Mar 7 2024

CLAYTON Echard from The Bachelor has won the battle against his ex-fling who claimed he got her pregnant.

Clayton, 30, was accused of fathering the woman's unborn twins in 2023.

The statement was released online speaking out against his accuser

Credit: Instagram/Clayton Echard

The anonymous woman claimed she had a one-night stand with Clayton that allegedly led to her becoming pregnant.

On August 1, she filed a lawsuit in an Arizona family court demanding he take a paternity test after he didn't believe he was the father of her twins.

He actively fought against the accusations and denied ever sleeping with the woman.

In December, the woman said she was no longer pregnant, but no more details were released.

READ MORE CLAYTON

In December, the woman said she was no longer pregnant, but no more details were released.

READ MORE CLAYTON

BOMBSHELL Bachelor Clayton Echard's ex-filing claims she's 'no longer pregnant' in court

ALL OK-CLAY Bachelor Clayton's ex defends him after he's accused of fathering...

On Thursday, Reality Steve posted a statement on X, formerly known as Twitter, from Clayton that stated she was never pregnant.

The statement claims that the woman admitted to altering medical records that claimed she was pregnant.

The statement also claims that: "Claims of a doctor 'confirming' the pregnancy are patently false.

"A tele-med (video) appointment with a neurologist is not pregnancy confirmation."

It also stated that there would be no proof of a "high-risk" pregnancy because "no obstetric care was ever sought."

FANS HAVE HIS BACK

Fans on social media had a lot to say about Clayton's recent statement and the new information.

One wrote: "I hope she gets jail time for this."

"Wow! Good for Clayton. Now, time to sue her for distress and harassment," added another.

A third said: "She deserves jail time & to pay all of Clayton's legal fees!"

A third said: "She deserves jail time & to pay all of Clayton's legal fees!"

"Good for Clayton!! Now I hope he sues her and she's punished for everything she put him through," commented a fan.

A fifth wrote: "I hope Clayton can finally move on from this travesty."

BEFORE THE CONFIRMATION

In January, Clayton's ex-filing claimed she's no longer pregnant. The U.S. Sun can exclusively reveal.

Four months after he was accused of fathering the woman's unborn twins, she made a bombshell claim in an Arizona court filing.

On December 28, the former Bachelor's ex-filing filed a motion to dismiss with prejudice her petition that was initially filed in August to establish paternity, legal decision-making, parenting time, and child support.

With prejudice means the case can be dismissed permanently and not be brought back to court.

According to court docs exclusively obtained by The U.S. Sun, the Petitioner claimed she was no longer pregnant.

The 33-year-old podcast host from Scottsdale, Arizona, noted in the docs: "Petitioner acknowledges that she is no longer pregnant with Respondent's child, meaning there is no paternity to establish."

She continued: "There is nothing left for this Court to adjudicate, and this case should be dismissed."

The Petitioner further described her current state as "not now pregnant."

She initially said she expected to give birth to twins on February 14.

There was no explanation given as to what had happened during the supposed pregnancy.

READ MORE ON THE US SUN

WHERE'S THE MONEY? Wendy Williams' ex wants her bank records after judge claims...

CENTER OF ATTENTION
Extreme effort to make Biden look young could backfire,...

The reality star's ex, however, is still requesting she be awarded attorney's fees and costs and a virtual evidentiary hearing to hash things out between her and Clayton through the court.

The U.S. Sun has reached out to the Petitioner for comment.